SURREY TREEHOUSE

Challenge

The homeowner was looking for two fully kitted out media rooms within the tree houses in their garden, complete with access to the latest films and fast internet connection, all connected to the main house's Crestron control system.

Solution

Through the Crestron CEN-RFGW-EX wireless gateway and CP2E control, the owner has access to film servers, Sky HD, digital radio and high speed broadband connection via in-wall touch panels and wireless Crestron remotes.

Crestron Is King Of The Jungle

Designing and installing the latest automated systems for luxury homes throughout the Home Counties is all in a day's work for MDfx. However, this year, with the help of Crestron, it created two outstanding tree houses in the grounds of a property in Windlesham, generously kitted out with an Xbox ONE, a wall-mounted 46" Full HD 3D TV, wireless speakers, multi-room sound system and subwoofers for an entertainment system many houses would envy.

The transformation of this luxury Surrey home began in 2011, when MDfx was to be commissioned to install a top of the range home automation solution. For this they chose a Crestron control system which included full lighting control, audio distribution throughout, a home cinema and comprehensive fire and security systems.

In 2014 the homeowner looked to them again to complete another project at the house, but this time they were asked to provide something a little more unique. Working with well-known luxury treehouse builder, Blue Forest, MDfx transformed two of the property's stunning tree houses, set in the beautiful grounds at the rear of the house, into Crestron controlled media and games rooms, both of which cost over £100,000 to create.

Each tree house is connected to the main house and its Crestron control system, which gives them full access to all of the media sources in the house including a film server, Sky HD, digital radio and high speed broadband connection. All of the different technological functions are cleverly controlled by touch panels on the wall and wireless Crestron remotes.

Each treehouse is also equipped with its own bathroom, the obligatory fireman's pole, a climbing wall, slide and a suspended bridge to connect them. Though these were built just for the children, the big kids of the family undoubtedly enjoy these extras too!
